Profile

Intrax Consulting Group is an end-to-end supplier that provides a broad base of engineering services including structural, civil, mechanical, electrical, hydraulic, forensic, geotechnical engineering and surveying to the housing, building and land development industries. Founded in 2003, we have grown rapidly into a large-sized engineering consultancy employing over 500 people across Australasia.

At Intrax we focus on understanding our clients' needs and objectives by listening and communicating properly, and then planning carefully to coordinate internally and externally to meet those objectives.

Our pointed focus on these aspects of our work means that we guarantee to provide an optimised, end to end quality assured solution that mitigates risk and meets the clients' objectives.

Our expertise includes the Volume Housing, Building Residential, Commercial, Retail markets as well as the government and community, education, infrastructure and land development sectors.

Intrax is the biggest engineering and professional services provider to the volume housing market in the east coast of Australia and is the only organisation of its kind that is both ISO9001 and NATA accredited.
